POC State Guide

Proof of Coverage State Guide—Kentucky

POC Timeliness Reporting Requirements
Transaction Received Date	Kentucky does not recognize NCCI's received date. The received date is determined by the state's acceptance of the transaction.
Policies	Due within 10 days after the Policy Effective Date. POC Notices may be submitted if the policy will not be issued within 10 days after the Policy Effective Date. This does not eliminate the need to submit the policy. The binder will automatically cancel 90 days after the effective date if a full policy has not been accepted.
Cancellations	Cancellations can be reported up to 75 days prior to the Cancellation Effective Date. Cancellation of any policy of insurance will take effect no greater than 10 days prior to receipt of notification. These requirements do not apply if the employer has obtained other insurance and the DWC has been previously notified.

Data Specifications Manual

The WCIO Workers Compensation Data Specifications Manual is a compilation of several electronic and hard copy specifications developed under the direction of the managed DCOs. The objective of these specifications is to provide standardized formats for information electronically to all DCOs and their members. Standardization eliminated insurers to develop a separate system for each DCO.

WCIO SearchPoint is an interactive application that features content from the WCIO Workers Compensation Data Specifications Manual, Data Dictionary and Codes Lists all in one location. To view the Data Specifications Manual via the new application, select WCIO from the Quick Launch located on the left.

PART 6—NAME AND ADDRESS REPORTING REQUIREMENTS

A. NAME RECORD

The Name Record (Record Type 02) provides information on the legal name(s) of the insured. The Name Record allows for three types of names:

- Personal name of the insured (e.g., John Doe)
 - Commercial name of the business (e.g., ABC Farm Equipment)
 - Entity string name—for those insurers unable to distinguish between personal and commercial names
- At least one Name Record must be submitted for the policy.

For insureds with multiple names (e.g., John Doe dba ABC Farm Equipment), report separate Name Records for each legal name. The name reported with Name Link Identifier 001 and Continuation Sequence Number 001 will be the primary insured. The following is an example of how to report these names:

Name Link Identifier	Insured Name	Continuation Sequence Number
001	dba ABC Farm Equipment	001
002	John Doe	001

Note: The letters "dba" (Doing Business As) should always be reported at the beginning of the name. If "dba" is reported at the end of a name, the name standardization process will remove.

1. Name Standardization

The Name Standardization process applies to all name records submitted to NCCI prior to editing.

a. Name Standardization Rules

The following charts provide the name standardization rules for abbreviations, special characters, excess verbiage, and rules for removal of non-name data.

PART 12—EDITING AND DATA QUALITY

A. PURPOSE

Because policy information serves as the cornerstone for many NCCI products and services, such as Proof of Coverage and experience rating, NCCI's editing process is critical to ensuring that the data submitted is consistent with reporting requirements and meets quality standards.

Edits are performed on all Policy data submitted to NCCI and indicate if corrective action is required to accurately process the data. Issues identified during the editing process are communicated to the insurer on the Policy Submission Results Report and the Policy Daily Submission Results Report.

Carriers are required to review edit results and submit corrected data when applicable. NCCI requires edits to be corrected within 60 days of notification.

Note: South Dakota—Carrier must provide satisfactory evidence of the correction of any error or omission, identified through NCCI's policy reports, within 60 days.

Refer to the Data Reports Guide available on ncci.com for details on policy reports.

B. EDITING

1. Edit Numbers

The edit number is a unique six-digit identifier assigned to each edit and is composed of a four-digit data element number and a two-digit edit sequence number.

- Data Element Number—A unique four-digit number NCCI assigns to each data element
- Edit Sequence Number—A two-digit counter used to identify multiple edits for the same data element

For example, 0156 is the data element number for the policy number. If there is only one edit associated with the policy number, it would show 0156-01 on the Policy Submission Results Report.

For a description of all edits, refer to Part 13—Policy Edit Matrices in this guidebook.

2. Edit Types

Each edit is classified into one of the following:

• Field—Ensure that the value in each field is reasonable according to submission requirements.

Policy Edit Message and Description

Record Type	Edit No.	Data Field	Error Code	Data Grade	Edit Message	Edit Description	Trans Code	Subm Media Type	Effective Date of Edit	Update Date	Changes

PART 5—ADDITIONAL ELECTRONIC REPORTING REQUIREMENTS

A. MULTIPLE POLICY CHANGES

Only one policy replacement transaction (Transaction Code 06, 08, 10, 14, or 15) for any one policy with the same Transaction Issue Date can be included in the same submission.

If there are multiple replacement transactions (Transaction Codes 06, 08, 10, 14, and 15) processed on the same Transaction Issue Date on the carrier's system, send the appropriate change transaction in separate submissions.

B. MULTIPLE CANCELLATIONS, REINSTATEMENTS, NONRENEWAL TRANSACTIONS

Multiple transactions for cancellations, reinstatements, and nonrenewals can be submitted and processed for the same Transaction Issue Date. The Cancellation/Reinstatement Transaction Sequence Number (Cancellation/Reinstatement Record, Record Type 08) must be correctly reported as described in Part 4—Data Element Requirements by Record and Transaction Type in this guidebook. If the Cancellation/Reinstatement Transaction Sequence Number is the same on multiple records, the records will be rejected.

Example: If a policy issued is effective on 01/01/13 and a cancellation and reinstatement are issued in the carrier's system on the same day, the Cancellation/Reinstatement Transaction Sequence Number on Record Type 08 for the cancellation should be reported as "01" and the Record Type 08 for the reinstatement should be reported as "02."

C. ELECTRONIC ENDORSEMENT REPORTING

Changes to the policy, for which there is a specific endorsement layout, must be reported by one of two methods:
